

Watch

Game Suggestions:

Count the minutes

Accessories: None

This is a basic counting exercise. A player starts moving in the clocks direction. When the player stops, the other participants tell how many minutes have passed.

There can be trained in understanding 15 minutes, 30 minutes, 45 minutes and finally 60.

Initially, the aim is to create an understanding of the above without the outright competition between the two teams.

Time-Indication

Accessories: Chalk

Practice understanding time-indication from 12:00 am to pm.

For ease of understanding, use examples from everyday lives. E.g. when they get up in the morning? When they eat breakfast? When they drive to school? When they eat dinner? When they go to bed? etc ...

Tip for both games!

In good weather conditions, one or two players are designated to be "hands of the watch". Practically, this is done by making the participants sit in the center of the clock, and use their legs as "hands of the watch"
